Lowellian

To everything there is a season,
and a time to every purpose under heaven;
A time to be born, and a time to die;
A time to plant, and a time to reap;
A time to kill, and a time to heal;
A time to breakdown, and a time to buildup;
A time to weep, and a time to laugh;
A time to mourn, and a time to dance;
A time to cast away stones,
and a time to gather stones together;
A time to embrace, and a time to refrain from embracing;
A time to get, and a time to lose;
A time to keep, and a time to cast away;
A time to rend, and a time to sew;
A time to keep silence, and a time to speak;
A time to love, and a time to hate;
A time of war, and a time of peace.

This year's 4-4-2 record doesn't look impressive, but when a team is predicted to be last out of eight teams in the conference and ends up fourth, something has definitely been accomplished.

Now that the players look back upon the season, they can see that if they had a few breaks against Highland or Munster, they could have had a much better record. The record certainly doesn't tell everything about the team. Our team had as much, or more, ability than any other team that has ever played for Lowell. The team and the fans will remember the 34-7 trouncing of rival Crown Point and the tying of state ranked Merrillville. Our team had one of the toughest defenses in the area. The defense, led by Charlie Drewry, was number 1 in the conference and held opponents to an average of 7.6 points per game overall. The defense also compiled four shutouts over the season.

The team also had many individual stars. Charles Drewry, Devil line backer, was named all-conference and all-state, while Mike Sharkey was all-conference and all-area tackle. Quarterback Randy Hile established himself as one of the top faking quarterbacks in the area.

Even though we had many individual stars, it was still a team effort. This team success can be attributed to the head coach Frank O'Shea. He was dedicated to the team and instilled pride in the players and is one of the best coaches in Northern Indiana.

We should also mention the gallant coaching of Coach O'Shea's assistants. Assistant Coaches Bill Wornhoff, Mike Sullivan, and Jim Novosel combined with Coach O'Shea provided a football coaching staff that produces winners.

The team will remember wonderful highlights such as the hot sweaty summer practices, the Randy Hile passing drill routine, Rex Cunningham's dead uncle that wasn't really dead, and Mike Peterson stumbling back to the huddle in the Hammond Tech game.

This year's freshman football team did not have a winning season, but they did learn to do up-downs while they learned fundamentals. Among the outstanding features of the team were the blocking of Pat Dougherty and the running of Bob Brummet. These boys could develop into one of the best varsity teams Lowell has ever had. Both Coach Skvara and Coach Hurst feel that greater successes can be expected from them in the future.

1971: Disappointing Season

Although 1971 was a disappointing season for the roadrunners, all was not lost. It should be noted that the conference was one of the toughest in the state and two teams from the conference placed in the state meet. Senior Ken Stuart was this year's most valuable runner, while Sophomore Dan Rust was the most improved runner.

Much spirit was displayed by the team during the year. Most of this can be attributed to the "unpredictable" co-captains, Steve Schwanke and Dane Schuyler. The two co-captains' leadership and humor kept the team going during the season. Between the laughing, the warm-up calisthenics, and the soccer and touch football games, work was accomplished. At the end of the season many runners had cut their times tremendously. In the sectionals this improvement showed up as we beat a few of the teams that had beaten us previously.

During the season many underclassmen gained the experience needed to provide the nucleus for a strong team in the future. Through guts and determination, these young runners will develop into fine athletes.

The 1972 Red Devil basketball team-champs. This year's team was basically a senior team and remembered the disappointment they felt the previous year as Juniors. They made a promise to themselves and Coach Ford that they would win the Sectionals in '72. They were committed to achieving a common goal, and spent many summer evenings practicing to attain this goal.

The team shocked everyone by opening the season with a 35 point loss to Rensselear. They rebounded with a three game winning streak, however, and opened the conference season with a victory over Munster. Final minute losses to Calumet, Hammond Morton, Benton Central, and Highland dampened the spirit of the squad and fans. A close win at River Forest and a moral boosting victory over Merrillville held the team together, just when many fans thought it would crumble into twelve separate pieces. In the Merrillville game, the Devils began to display the type of teamwork that distinguishes champions from "good" teams. This teamwork and hustle contributed to the winning of the initial Sectional game with a tough opponent, Kouts. In the final game the Rensselaer Bombers, the tournament favorites, were once again the opponents. The Bombers led during the first three quarters of a tense, low scoring game, but when the pressure was on, the teamwork and pride of the Devils came through. The Red Devils had fulfilled their promise — they became the '72 Sectional Champs.

This year's Junior Varsity Basketball team compiled an 8-11 record. Although the players will not receive a "National Hero" title for their record, they did gain many things. Knowledge of the game of basketball, experience, and the desire to achieve a goal were just a few of the things playing JV Basketball has taught these boys. Coach Weiand helped the team learn these things and other valuable facts which will not only benefit them in the game of basketball but also later on in life.

Frosh B-Ball

The frosh roundballers of 71-72 showed the people of Lowell what to expect on the hardwood in the years to come. Mr. Reyes again did an excellent job of smoothing the rough edges off of some pretty rough players. The season was all in all a fairly successful one with the team ending up with a respectable 10 and 9 record. With such prospects as Dave Miller and Billy Shelhart, the future shows some days of sunlight.

The 1971-72 wrestling team compiled only a 3-7 season record. However, this team seemed to be a tournament team — placing first in the Lowell 4-way, fifth in the Lake Suburban Conference Tournament, fifth in the Portage sectionals, third in the Gary Wirt regionals, and twelfth in state tournament. The season was highlighted by a dual meet victory over archrival Crown Point. The 1971-72 wrestling season was built upon the outstanding accomplishments of Sophomore Ralph Ballou who finished fourth in sectionals, fourth in conference, and compiling an individual record of 10-8-2. The senior members of the team were definitely strong and aggressive grapplers. Don Gwyn was runner-up in the sectionals and finished third in both the regional and conference meets. His individual record was 14-7. Charles Drewry, co-captain, exhibited excellent wrestling and won the sectional championship. Other achievements contributed by Chuck were a third place in regionals and a 17-5-2 record for the season. Mike Sharkey, co-captain, achieved one of the highest honors attained by any member of LHS wrestlers in six years by being runner-up in the state wrestling championships. With his heavyweight placing, Lowell placed twelfth in the state meet. Mike's 24-2 record in dual meets is second best in Lowell's history.

Tankers 71-72

The 1971-72 swimming season was the best season for the tankers ever. The team finished with a 5-5 record which is quite reputable. The year was marked by tremendous individual and team effort. The team broke nearly all of their previous records. Co-captain Derryl Shapiro set records in the 200 and 400 yard freestyle relay team. The other members of this relay team were Ray Smith, Stan McLellan, and the other co-captain, Pat Earley. Another standout on the team was Don Haberlin who placed in the sectional diving competition, an accomplishment which Lowell has never achieved before. Over the year underclassmen gained the needed experience to provide for a winning team in the future. Juniors Ray Smith, Dan Clark, Bob Shapiro, set records in their events and with the strong crop of sophomores and freshmen that our team had this year, the swimming program will continue to grow and get better in the years ahead. Last but not least we turn to Coach Sichterman. Without his brillant coaching, where would we be now?

Gymnasts Improve In Final Season?

This year was a season of improvement by our gymnastic team. Many of the gymnasts improved tremendously as the season progressed. The team was guided by "rookie coach" Michael Hynes, Ralph Midkiff, the team captain, helped guide the team along with coach Hynes. This sport, as well as any other sport, is a team effort, and many other individuals emerged as leaders. Jeff Mayer, Steve Jensen, Mike Walters, and Glen Walters, were assets of and helped improve the gymnastic program at Lowell High. But problems have arisen and there is the possibility that the gymnastic program will be dropped next year. The experience gained by the freshmen and sophomores will be wasted and the work put into this program in the past will be destroyed. We may be looking at the last gymnastic team of Lowell High School. Let's hope not.

LHS Cindermen Tough In 72

1972 was the most successful season that Lowell track has seen in a long time or perhaps even ever. This success can be attributed to a variety of people, places, and things.

To describe the fantastic season we first must look at the outstanding individuals. With an abundance of oustanding sprinters, Lowell emerged as one of the top 880 relay teams in the area. John Sheets, Steve Jensen, Jeff Mayer, and Dan Rust, were all top sprinters. John Sheets was one of the premier sprinters in the area. The Distance Crew was led by standouts Bob Little and Ken Stuart. The field events were another strong point of the team as Chuck Shultz, Ralph Midkiff, and Mike Sharkey contributed to the team cause regularly. An array of other standouts should be mentioned, but it would be impossible to list their huge contributions to the season.

Another contributor to the team was the coaching staff. Coach Wornhoff and Coach Hurst kept the team going and in superb condition.

The largest factor in the success of this years team was brought about by the presence of a "thing." This "thing" is what the two coaches referred to as "Moxy." Although the word is undefinable we know that it is something that has to do with guts, determination, pride, and a desire to win.

Linksmen 1972

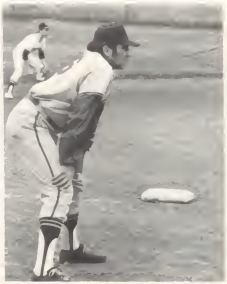

The golf team accomplished two of its three goals this season and came within one stroke of the third. The team first bettered its conference finish and had a winning season 13-9. The team did very well in both the Grant Park Invitational and at Sectionals, pulling through to tenth out of 22 at Grant Park and tenth out of 15 at Sectionals. This was the first winning season in over six years for the Devil Linksmen. They scored a 158 on the front nine at South Shore (one less than the school record). Mick Milakovic, the team's MVP, and Mike Lane, the John Alkire Award winner, had 38's that night along with Kim Schmidt s 39, Rich Shapiro's 43 and Kevin Schmidt's 45. Bob Shapiro had a 42 for the "B" team the same night, helping him to be chosen most improved golfer. The season's average was 173, but the bad spring weather caused early scores to be very high. With five of the first seven golfers back next year, golf could be in for another good year.

The 1972 Baseball season was one of swings and misses. The Devils started off on a winning track by beating Hanover 8 to 1, but things got tough and a long slump followed this victory for about ten games. This part of the schedule was disastrous to the team's record, but the old saying ("You can't keep a good team down"), proved true as the team started hitting the ball. A string of victories saved the Devils as they scored many upsets and made the race for the conference title interesting. By the time Sectionals rolled around, Lowell was considered by many as the team to watch. The Devils won their first game of the sectionals and advanced on to play Lake Central. In a hard hitting game, Lake Central defeated the Devils 13 to 10, thus ending the Devil's season.

Seniors Duane Babcock, Charlie Drewry, and Randy Hile were the teams outstanding hitters. While Mike Smith was named all conference and most valuable player, underclassmen Steve Sark, Doug Hales, and Terry Brownell gained much experience and will help LHS in the future years.

This year's JV squad was comprised of mostly freshmen, while a few sophomores and juniors filled in the other uniforms. The team's 1-11 record is not exactly a true description of the team. Since it was mostly comprised of freshmen, it was an unexperienced team that played against experienced juniors and sophomores from the various schools on their schedule. The season can be dubbed successful since these boys show strong potential for the future. Coach Skvara, also a rookie, did an excellent job of coaching.

The 1971-72 Cheerleaders began their season by winning the "Most Improved Squad" trophy at cheerleading camp. The girls were certainly deserving of this award. It was the cheerleaders job to stir up the dead student body at pep sessions and athletic events, and they should be commended for their efforts. Football season saw the cheerleaders brave the cold and damp fall weather to cheer the Devils to victory. Basketball season was an entirely different story in the heated gym. But whatever the weather, the cheerleaders always had one thing in common — sore throat and hoarse voices!

This year's freshman cheerleading squad was an important asset to Lowell High School. The girls worked hard to improve their cheerleading techniques and gained valuable experience. As representatives of the class of '75, they exhibited their enthusiasm and spirit at frosh football and basketball games, as well as JV and varsity contests. The freshman cheerleaders provided fine examples of sportsmanship and leadership.

Junior varsity cheerleading requires hours of practice with no apparent reward. This year's squad worked very hard in spite of the fact that there is no guarantee that they will become varsity cheerleaders. Their determination and dedication helped them gain valuable cheerleading experience. Under the capable leadership of sponsor Mrs. Reyes, the girls learned many things which will aid them greatly in their cheerleading careers.

Girl Athletes Get Tougher & Tougher

It was not so many years ago that girls competing in athletics were not only few and far between, but looked down upon by those stalwarts of athletic competition, the boys. Girls were given gym space only at times and without much grace. Many girls did not try out for the sport because it was unladylike to sweat. Girls' teams were usually weak and rather a joke to the more "serious" followers of sport (at least in Indiana). In small schools like Lowell, the girls did not win very often, which, according to the boys, was only just.

Things have changed. To paraphrase a popular commercial, "You've come a long way, lady athlete." Much to the surprise and discomfort of the boys, the girls' teams at Lowell are beginning to win! In fact, they are beginning too win a great deal. Lowell is still a small school and still has the problem of trying to beat the more populous teams, but they are doing it, as much as, if not more than, the boys. Girls are, in ever increasing numbers, beginning to sweat right along with the boys on the fields of friendly competition. In some cases they are even competing with the boys! Hats off, then, to the girls' teams and their coach for bringing the fairer sex "a long way, baby."

Activities

Homecoming 71 — Great!

Homecoming 1971-72 was a very memorable event. The festivities started Monday with the beginning of Spirit Week. Competition was fierce, but the Sophomores finally took enough points to win the overall prize. Excitement mounted all week with everyone busy rushing around trying to meet deadlines and studying, also, since Homecoming happened to fall on the last week of the grading period. Thursday finally arrived, however, and the Homecoming activities were ready to begin.

The Homecoming Parade was led by our Marching Red Devils playing the school song. The parade ended at the football field which was to be the setting for the bonfire. An enthusiastic crowd gathered and showed their spirit by yelling for a Devil Homecoming victory over Griffith.

A definite highlight of Homecoming Week was the Powder Puff football game. This year the Frosh-Sophomore Powder Puff team, under the gallant coaching of Terry Matury and Dennis Shumaker, upset the highly favored Junior-Senior team by a score of 14-12. During halftime, Charles Bemrose Drewry III was crowned 1971-72 Homecoming King.

After what seemed like an eternity, Friday came to Lowell High. A pep session servied to set the mood for an LHS victory. Surely no one can forget the Red Devils' 10-0 win over the Griffith Panthers. The most memorable event of the evening, of course, was the crowning of Jo Ann Hoffman as 1971-72 Homecoming Queen. JoAnn and her court reigned over an exciting Homecoming Dance, with music provided by Courage.

Full House For "Carousel"

Cheryl, you can't speak to that boy that way — just look at the crowd you're attracting!

Once again this year, the choir's annual musical was a big hit. Their production of "Carousel" was very well recieved and was a fitting climax of an outstanding year of choral activities.

The play was a love story with a New England setting and contained some very beautiful music. The long tiring hours of rehearsal paid off, as "Carousel" was one of the best musicals ever presented by the LHS Choir. Debbie Hoover and Nelson Schoon, playing the leads, performed excellently, as did every other member of the cast. Other major parts were played by Cheryl Ohlenkamp, Debbie Williams, Kurt Poppe, and Glen Walters. Lowell High School's Choir did a fine job and may well be proud of their efforts.

The Mouse That Ro-o-o-ared!

This year, the all school play was "The Mouse That Roared", a zany comedy about a tiny country of six thousand people that went to war with the United States .. and came out victorious! In the process, the Duchy of Grand Fenwick captured Professor Kokintz, a famous American scientist, General Snippet, the Army officer in charge of security, and the General's two daughters. The Fenwickian soldiers also captured the Professor's latest invention: the "Q" bomb. In the end, the United States got all of the prisoners back, but we'll never really know about the "Q" bomb.

A large cast of twenty-nine and many "extras" worked hard to present two fine performances of this play, directed by Mr. James Eminhizer. The female lead of Princess Gloriana the Twelfth, the twenty-two year old sovereign of Grand Fenwick, was played by Kassi Mitchell. The male lead of Tully Bascomb, the simple-minded forest ranger turned High Constable of Grand Fenwick's Expeditionary Forces, was played by Ken Travis. Randy Belstra, alias the eccentric Professor Kokintz, gave a fine performance in his first high school role. Other supporting roles were held by Terry (General Snippet) Matury, Robert (Mr. Beston) Shapiro, Jeff (the President of the United States) Gunning, Mike (Count Mountjoy) Ham, and Kurt (David Benter) Poppe.

Precious And Few

This years prom was the highlight of spring activities as May 5 brought "Precious and Few" to many couples. Shades of lavender were chosen for the colors as the juniors began the planning. Although decorating and money posed a problem, the juniors kept right on working. After climbing ladders, twisting crepe paper, and cutting chicken wire, the prom began to take shape, as shades of lavender became more apparent on the walls and windows of the V.F.W. Finally everything was ready. As the evening's eight O'clock drew near, beautiful ladies and handsome gentlemen began arriving. Soon the V.F.W. was full of music and dancing couples. The Grand March commenced after much twisting and confusion, ending with the crowning of Kathy Kyle and Guy Carlson as prom Queen and King. Mother's Tea Goes Hawaiian

"Aloha Hawaii" was the theme of the 1972 Mother's Tea. The atmosphere was typically Hawaiian, complete with tropical music, and all the makings of a luau. The program began with the entrance of the May Court — Pam Cox, Kathy Kyle, Jayne Meadows, Cheryl Ohlenkamp, and Joan Solomon. The big moment finally came when Susie Echterling, 1971 May Queen, announced the name of the 1972 May Queen — Kathy Kyle. Cheryl Ohlenkamp was named Maid of Honor. The Queen and court were entertained by a style show with Home Ec students modeling their newly completed fashions. Refreshments capped off an enjoyable evening.

Band Boosts Spirit

This year L.H.S. saw a huge improvement in the band. This came about largely because of improved playing abilities and a change in attitude. Mr. Crane should receive most of the applause. By improving the bands' attitude and changing the bands' image of a "do nothing band" to a "do something band," the organization began to roll. The band marched in many summer parades, played at all football and basketball games, and participated in many other activities, thus promoting school spirit.

again,
if only for a while or never
if only in my dreams.

An endless state
where i can rest my mind,
only wishing not to return to reality, everything remains the same but myself.

gone are the days we spent together.
laughing,
loving,
and now you spend them on a ride that .
will last till the end of your happiness.

wanting to be a part -
yet only if i can be me,
but somehow it doesn't seem enough.
so i dream of the things that i am not,
and wonder if i should change.

the rain falls so lightly,
yet we all run and hide,
just to escape something we cannot change.

I Wait

I wait for you for neon dreams
I wait for you for silent screams
I wait for you for darker nights
I wait for you for deadlier fights
I wait for you for ever will you come? Maybe never
I walk with you with a metallic smile Adjust the radio with the silver dail
A luminus mind with a transparent skull
Shining lights must be cleaned or they'll become dull
To do things is the only way
you'll be known
The love has either faded away or it has grown

I wait for you for neon dreams
have now been released for silent screams have now ceased for darker nights were shattered
by the sun
for deadlier fights are never won.

"Brass" 71-72

Lowell High School's Administration is comprised of three dark-haired, sinister-looking, but surprisingly intelligent men. Under their guidance, LHS students found themselves caught up in a very successful year. Mr. Elbert, the principal, was a busy man throughout the year doing such things as quieting the commons areas to a mild roar, acting as chief tour guide for visitors, and interrupting classes for "a couple announcements." Mr. Druckmiller, the assistant principal, led the student council throughout a productive year, as well as staging raids on the student lounge. Mr. Weiand was definitely the most popular of the three as he carried out the many duties of the Dean.

Chalk another one up for the Dean, right Mrs. Busselberg?

Commander in chief of Lowell High School.

Mrs. Kasparian was always kept busy; if not by one of the administrators, by a student.

The big three: Mr. Elbert, Mr. Druckemiller, Mr. Weiand, and the invaluable office help (Mrs. Busselberg, Mrs. Kasparian, and Mrs. Wooldrige) strike a pose.

This year, Lowell High School is losing one of its most distinguished faculty members, and since she is currently one of our librarians, this library page is dedicated to her — Miss Geraldine Thompson. Miss Thompson has served in the Tri-Creek School Corporation since 1945 — that's twenty-seven years, folks. During this long tenure she has taught English and been Librarian, helping thousands of students in the pursuit of the written word. It is with great sorrow that we say goodbye to Miss Thompson, and the Lowellian staff wishes her a happy retirement and many pleasant days ahead.

No loitering in the library, guys!

Of course I'll be able to sign you up for a few mods of jail!

The guidance office is a place where a student can get good free advice — and a Kleenex. Students can talk over personal problems, have a showdown with a teacher, or have their schedule changed. They may look ahead and talk over their plans, their abilities, and college or vocational choices with a guidance counselor. Teachers may also go to the guidance office to find out more about their students, since the office also handles tests and records. The counselors must have open minds and be expert at solving any number of problems. The guidance counselors are helping hands and friends indeed. So, as you can see, a guidance counselor is much more than just a shoulder to cry on!

In the Intensive Lab, girls apply their skills in a setting much like a real office.

The open lab concept utilizes free time.

Business

Ensconced behind the Great Blue Wall on the east side of Lowell High School is the Business Department. It is here that students are taught the arts and crafts necessary to survive in the business world. Most of the students in this area are girls who hope to land a job as secretary to make enough money to live after leaving the shelter of high school. The Business Department does all it can to teach the skills needed in this field. Next year, a new course will be offered — Survey of Business. In this course, students will spend short periods of time in several of the business areas in order to determine what specialized classes they may wish to take later.

Mr. Miller, Mrs. Reyes, Mr. Ham, and Mrs. Barrett teach business.

Mr. Ouwenga takes a break from math to visit a friend at the party given by the Home Ec II girls.

Home Ec teachers: Miss Smith and Mrs. Bailey.

Home Ec.

The Home Economics Department is steadily increasing in enrollment every year as the course becomes more interesting. A change in the Home Economics curriculum helps to make the course more interesting since the curriculum is now on a semester basis. This enables girls to take only the semester of Home Ec that they are interested in.

The Home Ec II girls were the cause of all those loose little kids everyone undoubtedly noticed running around early this spring. As in years past, the young friends and relatives of the Home Ec II girls were the guests at a fun-time party. This party not only entertains the children; it allows the girls to observe the behavior of various age groups. This year's party was, as usual, a big success.

Tractors, greenhouses, and hoes. This is what the agriculture department is all about; or is it? Actually, the teaching of vocational agriculture in a community like Tri-Creek is a vital and important job, for this is basically a farm area, and many of the graduates of Lowell High School will spend their lives producing food for the world. Even so, there is more to the Ag Department than farming. The Future Farmers of America, Lowell chapter, is one of the best in the district, finishing fourth this year. The agriculture people also help out the athletic teams in the spring by working on the baseball field and the track. Therefore, even though the department has only one faculty member, Agriculture is a most important cog in the total school program.

Mr. Horan is chief cook and bottle washer of the Ag Department.

Agriculture

One of agriculture's biggest friends is John Deere; here, Chuck McBain and another ag student try to repair Mr. Deere.

P.E. Teachers Susan Graham, Michael Sullivan, and Frank O'Shea.

The physical education program is aimed at furthering student athletic skills and abilities. During the past year, Susan Graham, Frank O'-Shea, and Michael Sullivan could be found teaching anything from ping-pong to basketball to modern dance. Lowell High's excellent facilities allowed for a wide variety of activities.

Physical education hopefully leads to mental, physical, and social maturity. Activities involving physical fitness and coordination further physical growth, while participation and knowledge of game strategy and rules contibute to mental and social maturity.

Uh, oh! Miss Graham's watching. Better make this a good vault, Marge.

Lowell's art facilities provide excellent opportunities for students interested in art both as a hobby and as a career.

Foreign Language

Lowell High School's Foreign Language Department is spearheaded by veteran teachers Loranna Walton, Wendell Fredericks, and Armand Reyes. They were joined this year by rookie Spanish teacher Linda Geller. Mrs. Walton guides her students through their French books with ever-increasing speed. Her French students listen to tapes, recite dialogues, and hear sick jokes. The Spanish curriculum includes projects such as commercials, skits, and plays, and writing and speaking drills. Mr. Fredericks teaches Latin, placing emphasis on its cultural and literary significance.

Fine Arts teachers Wendell Fredericks, Robert Ray and James Crane.

Fine Arts

The 1971-72 school year was a very active one for the Fine Arts Department. Mr. Ray's students found themselves in the midst of many new and interesting art projects. The band, under the leadership of Mr. Crane, participated in football games, parades, and concerts. Mr. Fredericks and the choir hosted the Northern Indiana State Choral Festival and presented "Carousel." There were also quite a few N.I.S.B.O.V.A. entries from the band and the choir, and Lowell was represented at state by Zada Law, Jane Coffman, Janet Hoffman, Nelson Schoon and Dean Hoover. These achievements and others helped to make the past year a successful one for the Fine Arts Department.

One of the most popular and versatile departments at Lowell High School is Industrial Education. In this department, students learn a great many skills that will aid them in seeking employment once out of school. Under the capable leadership of Bill Kalbac, the I.A. department, using individual course offerings and the open lab concept, gives students instruction in such areas as graphic arts, auto mechanics, electronics, and welding, (besides the usual woods and metals courses). Students who avail themselves of these courses are much better prepared than most for the work world.

Science

Dissecting frogs, watching organisms through a microscope, and working on impossible problems for chemistry or physics are just a few of the things a student taking a science course may encounter. General science, taught by Miss Allegre and Mr. Skinner, helps to give students an understanding of earth and life science. Biology students, guided by Mr. Beeching and Miss Allegre, became acquainted with the living things around them. Mr. Haynes' chemistry students found their studies based on laboratory technique, and his physics students studied the realtionship between matter and energy. Botany, zoology, and earth science rounded out the science curriculum.

Science and Math Teachers: Jack Ford, Michael Hynes, Steve Backe, Larry Ouwenga, Susan Allegre, Omer Beeching, John Skinner.

Math

This year Lowell High's Math Department strove for better ways to meet its students' individual needs. For the first time, Consumer Mathematics, designed to acquaint students with practical uses of math, was offered. Courses for the college-bound student were also available, as well as courses for students taking a general academic curriculum. The math teachers, Mr. Backe, Mr. Ouwenga, Mr. Ford, and Mr. Skinner, have placed emphasis on all interests and abilities. The balanced mathematics, curriculum provided an interesting variety of courses which will prove to be useful to all students who take them.

Among the goals of the Social Studies Department for 1971-72 was to give students a better insight into the actions and activities of the world around them. Comparative government games and student political conventions provided government students with an improved understanding of the mechanics of world governments. Psychology and sociology classes gave students a better understanding of man. U.S. History students learned through activities such as minority projects, while world history classes spent the year examining and comparing world civilizations.

English

Amidst, but not because of the controversy surrounding the phase-elective English program, Hazel Nichols, an English and Latin teacher in the Tri-Creek system for fifteen years, announced her retirement. Mrs. Nichols is one of the most highly respected teachers at the high school and will be sorely missed in the English Department. Her constant good nature, her intelligence, and her calming influence will be difficult if not impossible to replace. It is, therefore, with great pride that the Lowellian staff dedicates this page to Mrs. Nichols.

Mr. Eminhizer draws on an intruder in the English Department.

A sneak peek at Mrs. Musselman's enthusiastic Freshman English class.

1972 was the most daring and creative year in the recent annals of the English Department. It was also filled with more sweat, temper, and soul searching than any other year. For in 1972, the English Department lived and died with the problems of the phase-elective program. Early in the year, disgusted by the flagging interest in programmed grammar, the department set out to imporve the English curriculum through the development of a mini-course program designed to meet the needs of all the students. Several months (and bruises) later, an all new program was adopted by the school board for use in 1972-73. The road was not easy, but the end justified the journey.

'Now, look here, you do it my way, or states Mr. Eminhizer.

Part of the custodial staff: Frank Kukral and Betty Williams.

Ever wonder what happens to all the garbage that you see lying around the school each night? Well, the secret shall now be revealed — our unselfish custodial staff cleans up after us. The vacuum runs till all hours of the evening and garbage can after garbage can finds its contents emptied into an incinerator. The kitchen staff prepares hundreds of meals each day for both students and teachers. While not busy making no-bake cookies and brownies, other tasks done by the kitchen staff are planning meals and budgets, washing trays, and serving. LHS owes a lot to these people for the unlimited services they render.

Senior Moments

With a tear and a grin, Kathy Prendergast begins her reign as our 1972 Junior Miss.

We now see two hard-working seniors, Mike Pancini and Randy Hile, studiously gazing into their cherished books.

Long Awaited Caps And Gowns Of '72

After twelve long years of books, teachers, and hard work, the senior class of 1972 found itself concluding it's required schooling by a graduation exercise conducted on June fourth. The gymnasium was made colorful by the red and white caps and gowns and by the four large floral pieces. Every senior took on a serious attitude as the Baccalaureate began. The three student speakers, Peter Ketcham, Terry McHugh, and Ken Stuart, all gave excellent speeches. The presentation of diplomas went quickly, and by late afternoon the class of 1972 could no longer be called seniors; they had graduated. Graduation Day, 1972 shall be long remembered by each graduate.

Did you say Senior Grub Day — you mean there's only one??

The best way to study is with plenty of light and closed eyes.

This year's Senior Grub Day was not as evident as those in the past. For some reason, very few seniors participated in this annual event. Those that did participate, however, did manage to be noticed. Ragged shirts, shorts, jeans, and even shoes were just a few of the many items worn by this year's grubby seniors. Since Senior Grub Day was the seniors' very last day of school, almost all work was abondoned for fun and doing nothing. Despite the small number of seniors who participated in the Senior Grub Day, May 26 was still Senior Day.

Lowell High School's Mock Democratic Convention was historic since it was the first ever tried by a high school in Indiana.

A group of about thirty delegates attempted to liven things up a bit and staged a walkout during roll.

Mock Democratic Convention

Balloons, signs, a marching band, and walkouts were just a few of the things that added to the excitement of the 1972 Mock Democratic Convention. When the first balloting was completed, George Wallace and George McGovern had gathered the most votes, but neither had enough to win the nomination. Many candidates who felt they were out of the running then pledged their support to other candidates. The tabulation of the second vote showed George McGovern, portrayed by Guy Carlson, emerging as the victor.

The Mock Democratic Convention was indeed a success and provided a unique learning experience for the students of LHS.
